Unrivalled Thanksgiving Offering

TABLE WEAR REQUISITES.

Anticipating an unusual demand, we have been preparing for this sale some time and have secured the best values in

LINENS and HOUSEKEEPING GOODS

ever offered the people of Washington. Like Handkerchiefs, our stock of Table Linens, Napkins, Doylies, Tray Cloths, Table Covers, etc., are all "linen" and nothing but linen, which undoubtedly accounts for the immense business we are doing in these lines.

Doesn't "linen" wash better? Doesn't "linen" look whiter? Doesn't "linen" look prettier? Doesn't "linen" wear longer? Then why not use it altogether in preference to frowsy, yellowish cotton-and-linen?

We'll have you using nothing but "linen" after a

The President's Embargo.-It was stated to-day by an official at the Executive Mansion that the result of the work done by President Cleveland during his embargo by President Cleveland during his embargo of the office-seekers and their friends will be apparent when the first batch of nominations is sent to the Senate at the beginning of the next session, and that it will surprise the public at the amount of work he is getting through, as his working hours would surprise any Department clerk.

one hundred people assembled in the East Room this afternoon to pay their respects Cloths, fringed, splendid to Mr. Cleveland, "We helped to put you here, and I came down to get a look at you." "That was right," replied the President; "I am glad to see you." A young lady in shaking hands, said: "You are the first one with whom I ever shook hands. I came all the way from Baltimore," laughing merrily and laying stress upon the words "all the way." The President smiled and said: "May you shake hands with many more."

pend, of course, on the position which the Administration takes. I had a number of talks with the President this summer, and he wants to see the tariff modified and taxes reduced during his administration. I told him the revenue reformers were willing to make almost any concession to secure harmony on the tariff reduction bill. The President said he thought the bill should not be any one man's measure, but the measure of the party and of the administration, and that we ought all to work together to secure its passage.

"My position upon the silver question is well known. I am a bi-metallist. The State Department has been gathering information about silver, and I understand the Administration will have something to say on this question. It may be that it would be a good thing to have a temporary suspension of the coinage of the present silver dollar to see if some sort of arrangement could not be made with the leading foreign nations for the common adoption of a bi-metal currency, but I am quite sure the House would never adopt a proposition providing even for a temporary suspension without some satisfactory substitution in the way of additional legislation in favor of silver."

The Next House. The unofficial list of the members of the House of Representatives, but which may be considered as very nearly correct, shows that t will consist of 141 Republicans, one Greenit will consist of 141 Republicans, one Greenback Democrat and 183 regular Democrats, including Mr. Findlay. Of the Democrats 110, quite a large majority were in the last Congress, and of the Republicans eighty-four are old members. The Democratic majority will be over forty, very much less than that in the last House, which is exceedingly fortunate. If the majority was less it would be better, for large majorities are always unwieldy and combersome to handle. The man who will be most missed is Mr. S. S. Cox., whose wit and genial humor have illumined the House of Representatives, with brief intermission, for almost thirty years.

Police Trial Board Findings. Major Dye bas forwarded to the Commioners the following recommendation of the Police Trial Board: That Private Charles Kenny be fined & for riding on the rear platform of a car. That Private Dennis Loftus be fined $5 for setting on a door-step while on duty.

That Private G. R. F. Smith be fined $25 for entering a house and remaining fifty minutes while on duty.

That the charge against Station-Keeper Mickle of going to sleep in a chair while on duty be dismissed.

The Railroad Not to Blame. In the case of Jones against the Balti-more & Ohio Railroad Company the jury Jones bought a ticket for Galthersburg and Jones bought a ticket for Gaithersburg and by mistake got onto a Baltimore train. The conductor told him to jump off, which he did, and broke a leg. He then sued the company for damages and at the first trial obtained a verdiet for $8,000, which was set aside on the ruling of the judge that any one who jumped from a moving train did so at his own risk.

THE DRAWBACK CERTIFICATES

Why They Cannot be Applied to District Debt. Comptroller Durham's decision that the District tax drawback certificates cannot be applied to the payment of the debt of $250,000, for the completion of the drainage and sewerage system of the District, was in response to a proposition made by the Dis-trict Commissioners that such credit should be allowed. Mr. Durbam says in his decision, which is based upon the act of Congress of June 20, 1894, appropriating $500, 000 to complete the sewerage system, and the second section of the act of February 25, 1885, making appropriation for the Dis-trict expenses for the years 1885-'86, that there is no doubt in his mind as to what is meant by the first act.

It is that one-half of the unexpended bal-

It is that one-half of the unexpended balance of appropriations heretofore made for the support of the District and any amounts in excess of appropriations may be applied by the Commissioners to pay the amounts charged to the District. His opinion is that Congress did not intend that the District should have a credit on the $250,000 referred to on account of the drawback certificates referred to in section 2 of the act of February 25, 1885.

THE BOWMAN MURDER.

An Eventful and Turbulent Caree Ends as Might Be Expected. The mysterious assassination of ex-Mayo topic of general and sensational interest on account of the prominence of the deceased, both as a politician and a man identified with some of the largest corporations of the country. In the secounts so far published no allusion is made to the fact that just after Bowman fled Baden, his native coun try, and took up his residence in London he was made the secretary of the Inter pationalists, an organization that was composed of the leading Socialists that were compelled to leave the German provinces compelled to leave the German provinces, France, and other countries of Europe in which revolutions were the order of the day. Bowman had a liberal education, and being a man of powerful ability, he became prominent among such men as Hecker and others who were conspictions in the German revolution of 1848. After reaching the United States Bowman found his way to Missouri in a short while and became the private secretary of Thomas II. Benton, and was with him durfa, be memorable campaign of 1856, though but little known to the people in general in Missouri. A few years later Bowman was made postenaster at Knobnoster, Mo. His real name was "Bauman," but his commission was made out "Bowman." It may be that he purposely had his name changed, on account of having been so prominently connected with the revolution in his native land, and subsequently the secretary of the internationalists who made headquarters at Loudon.

In early life it will be seen that Rowman was the champion of socialism, and the avowed friend and advocate of labor. In a few years, though, we find him practicing as a lawyer and notifician, and at the time France, and other countries of Europe it avowed friend and advocate of labor. In a few years, though, we find him practicing as a lawyer and politician, and at the time of his cold blooded assassination, attorney for and stockholder in some of the largest corporations in the country. He amassed quite a saug fortime, and led a life so stormy and eventful that he was in constant dread of dying with his boots on. His socialistic tendencies seein to have vanished as soon as wealth began to come his way, and Bowman's change of heart is but the repetition of many similar changes before, and of many yet to come, perhaps. Heavy rewards have been offered for the apprehension of the assassin, and the probabilities are that the villain will be discovered, as a reward in a city like East St. Louis is very tempting.

Latitude and Liquor.

There is a good deal of difference in the United States as to drinking. Men from the North and East and from Californi drink wine, while those from the West and South take whiskey straight. Wisconsin men are fond of their own Milwaukee bear. Senstors Frye and Biair are said to be the only Senators who are tectorallies. Attor-tey-General Garland likes a good article of bourbon. President Cleveland drinks beet sometimes. The Speaker is a good judge of liquor and be often takes a bettle of wins with his lunch.—[Washington Letter.

But on a very large piece of paper we are told that "The lien about my marrying, to which you call attention, is a pure invention and absolutely untrue. Respectfully, Count Gyldenstolpe."

The new Brazilian Minister, Baron Itajuba, gained a great reputation as a writer of international law in his own country. He has served both in the House of Lords and in the Privy Council or Cubinet of the Emperor. He was a member of the Geneva Conference, when his vote was favorable to the interests of the United States. He will, no doubt, receive the cordial welcome he deserves upon reaching Washington.

Charles Hamilton was a member of the National Band, and on the night in question, at the corner of Fifth and N streets, had words with Hill, who was taking home a gird named Eliza Thit. They supervised and later mot again at the corner of Fourth and N streets, where Hill was shot. Hamilton was tied in April, 1880, the jury disagreeing between a verdiet for manslangiter and acquittel, and he has been on ball since that time. He has also married, and has one child. The following jury was selected to try the case: Messes. George Woodridge, Edward Devlin, John Turner, I. G. Coombs, Henry Taylor, John A. Gray, William Wolf, Andrew V. Robey, Alfred Pope, Walter McKee, John H. Darne and George Jones. The first testimony was that of Surveyor Coyle, with a plat showing the scene of the homicide, and the physician's us to the cause of death.

William H. R. binson, uncle of the deceased, testified that he was going to the pump at Fourth and N screets and saw Hill soming up Fourth street. The witness tooked around, and as he did so he heard a pistol shot. Turning back he saw Hill lying down, and went to pick him up. As he did so he him, and he replied Charley Hamilton.

West and South streets were flowled by the high tide this morning, causing great damge. The high tide of the North River did much damage to the Erie Depot in Jersey City. On the arrival of the Nyack express at 0 o'clock this morning, the water in the depot was so deep that it reached to the bottom of the cars and their wheels were entirely submerged.

Fetal Results of a Fire lu New York

PANIC-STRICKEN INMATES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.-A fire was discovted in the five-story double tenements, Nos. 204 and 506 East Sixty-fourth atreet, at 2 o'clock this morning. In one house there were sixteen and in the other twenty familes. Nearly all are Bohomian eigar makers. When the frightened tenants awoke they found the stairways in flames and all chance of escaping cut off except by the fire escapes. They seemed incapable of properly using these modern life-saving alders and huddled in groups on the landing while the flames burst through the roof and shot far up into the air. An alarm brought several engines and book and laider companies to the scene. The fremen of the life-saving corps safely brought the frightened and bewildered tenants to the ground. The shivering people in their night clothes were conveyed through the rain to a neighboring house. An hour and a halfs' work was required to extinguish the fire. On an upper floor of No. 40%, they found the bodies of Mary Trailia, a widow 40 years old, and her two daughters. Mary aged 7, and Annie aged 6. They were burned to a crisp and were lying close to a window leading to a fire escape when found.

This morning a man informed the pelices that swoke they found the stairways in flames when found.

This morning a man informed the police that he and the other tenants believed that Henry Kohat, in whose apartments the fire originated, had set the bailding in flames. Detectives at once hastened to the house to arrest him. They were just in time, for the frenzied Bohemians were trying to get hold of him to lynch him. After a hard light the officers got their man in safety to the police station. station.

Justice Duffy remanded him to await the investigation of the fire marshal.
